Deed at Glasgow, Scotland, To-day Is Charged to the Suffragettes

A CARETAKER CUT

Glasgow, Scotland, Jan. 24.-A bomb Glasgow. Scotland, Jan. 24.—A bomb outrage, which is believed by the police to have been carried out by militant suffragettes, to-day destroyed the extensive conservatory in the Glasgow botanical gardens, known as the Kibble crystal palace. The great glass roofs and sides of the structure were blown into thousands of pieces, and many of the valuable plants housed there were valuable plants housed there were blown in the triangle of the structure were blown into the valuable plants housed there were valuable plants housed there were blown in the triangle of the prophets of evil who for political purposes preach national pain. Look calmly at the truth. America suffers from no disaster. She is better off when the worst is said than her sister nations. From the bottom, which at most was not deep, she has already risen far and is rising. There was just cause for hesitation in that which has bappened in the past. The reaction from a narrow escape from serious injury. Footprints and portions of food, which were found in the bushes, indicated that the perpetrators waited some time for an opportunity to set off the bombs.

Near the footprints, which were those of women, a black silk veil was picked up. Among the remains of the repast were an empty champagne bottle and some cake.

For Their Ready Adjustment to New Conditions With Relation to the Tariff Law, in Speech at New Haven To-day.

New Haven, Conn., Jan. 24.—An affirmative view of business was the keynote of a speech Secretary Redfield made here to-day before the Chamber of Commerce. He praised American manufacturers for their ready readjustment to new conditions and declared that the flood of foreign manufactures which it was predicted would flood American markets with the passage of the new tariff had not materialized.

"Aye, but you say, look at the depres-

"Aye, but you say, look at the depression. Well look at it," said Mr. Redfield. "Look at it sanely, without passion and without prejudice. What do you see? But before you answer let me ask a second question: Where are you looking? "Get the horizon big enough, else your picture will be but partial and may mislead. Where then is trade depression found? In India, in Argentina, in Brazil, in Germany, in England. Where is the rising tide from such depression as exists felt first and most?

in some small degree. "It was perfectly proper that business men, whose output was affected more or less by the new tariff, should give thoughtful heed how to readjust themselves to it. They would have been fool-ish had they done otherwise. Frankly, the men who dreaded tariff changes most have said, and are saying, that read-justments are over and the new is at its worst nothing like as bad as they feared and that at its best is helpful. "Europe begins to see its way out of its deep depression, and last and best of all, you know that sympathy with all that is finest and best in business ife and with the highest ideals of industrial activities is regnant at the seat of government. This is no longer the day of doubt but the hour of hope.

Nearly All the Members Present and Enjoying Occasion to the Utmost

For the twenty-third time the members of the Barre Burns club met last evening in Clan Gordon hall to do honor to the memory of Robert Burns, on the 155th anniversary of the poet's birth, and while the character of the evening's exercises and entertainment varied little from previous year, it was one of the most enjoyable of all the twenty-three events. Nearly every member was present and entered into the spirit of the occasion with an enthusiasm that made the efforts of the committee in charge doubly successful. President Angus McDonald acted as toastmaster, and he was very happy in his remarks at the beginning of the evening's program. He called attention to how universal the celebration of the anniversary of Burns' birth had become, and the growing love and appreciation of the Scottish bard. Following his welcoming remarks, the following program was caried out:
